COURT ORDER GIVES REDS NEW RESPITE

Washington (AP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals today applied the controversial Jencks case rule to the government's effort to label the Communist party as a tool of Moscow. On that ground, it granted the party at least another delay.

The ruling was that the government, in its action before the Subversive Activities Control Board, must give the party access to reports which a key witness made to the FBI, if it is to rely on that witness' testimony.

The order follows the theory adopted by the Supreme Court last June when it reversed the conviction of Clinton Jencks, former labor leader, on charges of filing a false non-Communist affidavit under the Taft-Hartley Act. The high court ruling was that the government had to make available to the defense statements filed with the FBI by two key prosecution witnesses.

Some prosecutions have been dropped by the government on the basis of the Jencks case, rather than release material which federal officials contend would identify secret agents, disclose investigating methods and close information sources.

Congress passed a special law aimed to soften some of the effects. But in criminal cases the defense can still see such reports, after the court has screened out nonrelevant material, for a check on the credibility of a witness' court testimony.

The Appeals Court applied the same rule to SACB testimony by Mrs. Mary Stalcup Markward who served for years as an FBI undercover agent within the Communist party.

Today's order requires further proceedings by the government in the seven-year effort to make the Communist party register as an agent of Moscow. The SACB has held that it must do so.

This apparently left the board with the alternative of eliminating Mrs. Markward's testimony and writing another report, or conducting further hearings.

Mrs. Markward, now a housewife living in suburban Silver Spring, Md., was an active agent for the FBI within the Communist party from May 1943 until October 1948.

Oil City Member of Tavern Gang Yeggs Changes Plea Again

Arthur Gilliland, 18, of Oil City, one of the five members of the gang which burglarized Pine Woods Tavern and stole two cars in early December, has changed his plea once again and will throw himself upon the mercy of the court when he pleads guilty to one charge of burglary and two charges of larceny before Judge Alexander C. Flick, Jr., in Quarter Sessions Court tomorrow morning.

Gilliland, a youth of many moods, first pleaded guilty to the burglary, not guilty to the stolen car charges. Then he decided to plead not guilty to both charges and was bound over in lieu of $2,000 bail to Grand Jury. Then (Turn to Page Eight)

19 Below at Chapman Dam Is Coldest Spot in Area Today

The coldest night of the winter froze through this section early today and brought temperatures down to an official low of 9 below zero in Warren Borough, according to Weather Observer "Uncle Jim" Reier.

Elsewhere in the county, still lower readings were reported. At the perennial icebox of Chapman Dam a minus 19 degrees was reported. Minus 16 degree readings were sighted up Jackson Run Road, a 15 below was reported on the Matthews Run Road out of Youngsville and a frigid 14 below was reported by Marconi Outing Club. Earl Bigford, superintendent at the Farnsworth Fish Hatchery, Brown Run, reported 16 below there.

An oddity in the news about the cold snap is the fact that Harry Chinberg at Scandia reports the

Freezing Weather Severely Damages Citrus and Garden Crops in Southern Florida

Miami, Fla. (AP)—Early-rising south Floridians were greeted by temperatures hovering around the freezing point today.

Many homes are without heating systems and residents huddled near electric heaters.

The unusual sight of frost was reported in suburban Coral Gables. The price of firewood was up from the early fall price of $18 for half a cord to $23 at one Miami woodyard.

The lowest temperature reported in the farming belt south of Miami was 31 degrees. It was enough to crack tomatoes, the major crop being harvested at present.

A December cold snap seriously damaged the citrus crop.

Snow, though rare, has fallen on Florida before but the Weather Bureau forecast this snow—the first such forecast in history, it said. The forecast was correct—snow fell over much of the state.

Grove owners lighted fires in their groves during the night. Truck farmers irrigated or covered their crops.

By The Associated Press
Bitter cold stung the East Coast today on the heels of one of the region's worst snowstorms in years. The freeze struck a fresh blow at previously damaged Florida crops.

The mercury slid below zero in parts of snow-covered New England and western Pennsylvania.

Early morning temperatures sank into the dangerous 20 in the crop-growing areas of the northern half of Florida.

The cold breath of winter froze Pennsylvania today.

Motor traffic remained hazardous along most of the state's secondary roads. Except for scattered patches of ice main highways were clean and clear.

At least one person was killed because of the ice. Harry Sinn, 52-year-old steelworker, was killed on the Schuylkill Expressway early today, as he drove home from his Conshohocken job.

The weatherman promises warmer temperatures Friday, with highs ranging into the low 40s in southeastern Pennsylvania. It will remain near freezing—in the low 30s—elsewhere.

State Takes Over Fourth Ave. From Laurel to Market

Warren County Highway Department Superintendent Chester Walker announced today that effective January 1, 1958 his department has assumed all maintenance and snow removal obligations on Fourth avenue from Laurel to Market street.

That .59 of a mile stretch was one of four near Warren taken over by the state from borough and township control. Among the others now officially under state operation is Mohawk avenue extension to Chapman Dam Park. Approval has already been granted to pave this.

Superintendent Walker also stated today that no further word has been received from Harrisburg concerning the repairs to the Garland Bridge or the Pleasant Township erosion problem. Repair work on the dangerous section of Matthews Run Road should be completed by March. About five miles north of Youngsville the roadways is being moved 19 feet to remove a dangerous blind hill and curve.

Henceforth, highway department forces will be maintaining these former township and borough roads: an extension on LR 61074 in Glade Township which extends (Turn to Page Eight)

Harrisburg (AP)—Weldon B. Heyburn, one-time state senator, auditor general and state treasurer, set out in quest of the Republican nomination for U. S. Senator.

"I'm interested in getting the nomination and I'm starting right now to round up support among county chairmen and other leaders," he told a newsmen.

The 53-year-old Delaware County Republican declined to discuss the extent of his backing but he is right-hand man to George I. Bloom, GOP state chairman. Heyburn holds the title of assistant chairman.

It is known that Heyburn feels he is entitled to party recognition for his role in averting intra-party strife when former U. S. Sen. James H. Duff was the GOP nomination for a second term in the Senate.

Heyburn was persuaded to drop his plans of opposing Duff in the primary. Duff, however, was defeated in the general election by Democrat Joseph S. Clark.

The entry once again of Heyburn's name into the senatorial picture was not entirely surprising.

Entering the U. S. Marine Corps in 1942, he had his name changed legally to John Hamilton to avoid publicity.

American Mother Is Reunited With Son In Shanghai Jail

Hong Kong (AP)—An American mother was reunited today in Shanghai with her son imprisoned for life by the Chinese Communists on espionage charges. She had not seen him in 11 years.

"I feel wonderful," said Mrs. Ruth Redmond of Yonkers, N. Y., in a telephone conversation with Hong Kong. "Hugh is looking very good."

Hugh, a 38-year-old former businessman in Shanghai, has been held by the Reds since 1951.

Another mother, Mrs. Mary Downey of New Britain, Conn., also saw her son, John, in a prison at Peiping, it was reported from the Red Chinese capital. She found him "very fit and in good spirits," the report said.

Mrs. Downey and a younger son, William, visited the prisoner for two hours. He has been imprisoned since 1952 on a life sentence on espionage charges.

Mrs. Downey and William arrived in Peiping with Mrs. Jessie Feeteau of Lynn, Mass., who is to see her son Richard. He is serving a 20-year sentence, also on espionage charges.

Authorities at the gray-walled prison told Mrs. Downey she and Mrs. Feeteau would be allowed to see their sons three times a week until their Chinese visas expire Jan. 19.

EAGERLY AWAITED MESSAGE ON STATE OF UNION SAYS U. S. FACES REAL DANGER

Washington (AP)—President Eisenhower today gave Congress an eight-point "safety through strength" program for dealing with the Russian space age threat. It included defense reorganization to unify control and end inter-service rivalries.

In an eagerly awaited State of the Union message, Eisenhower said America's military strength at present is great and is a powerful deterrent to war.

But he said the dangers the United States faces are real. He said that unless we act wisely and promptly "we could lose that capacity to defend ourselves" and deter any Soviet attack.

The President, in an address carried nationwide on television and radio, said too that the country could make no more tragic mistake "than to concentrate merely on military strength."

That, he said, could lead us to an age of terror.

Of even greater danger than the military threat posed by Russia's space age advances, Eisenhower said, is a massive economic offensive already launched by the Soviet Union against the United States and the rest of the free world.

The Senate and House assembled in joint session in the House chamber to hear the President deliver his message personally.

There was almost a wartime solemnity in the grand mood of Congress—shaken by the national concern over Russia's space and rocket feats.

And, in the same note of the critical world situation, Eisenhower made his eighth point a direct appeal to the people of the Soviet Union—over the heads of their Kremlin leaders—to join in a drive for enduring world peace and take part in a first step toward disarmament.

The seven other points of his program will require legislative action by Congress:

1. Defense Reorganization—Eisenhower, obviously with mounting interservice rivalries in mind, said the nation's first need is to assure that military organization speeds, rather than hinders, the functioning of the military establishment.

Eisenhower said he will have specific proposals later in a special defense message.

2. Accelerated Defense Effort—Eisenhower called for a speedup all along the line, including protection and further dispersal of U. S. striking forces and more adequate warning facilities in case of attack.

He said freedom of the seas must be maintained, and said that means nuclear submarines and cruisers, as well as antisubmarine weapons, missile ships, and similar facilities.

3. Continuation and Strengthening of the Mutual Security Program of Foreign Aid—Eisenhower said that if the foundations of the free world structure were progressively allowed to crumble under the pressure of Communist imperialism the entire house of freedom would be in danger of collapse.

"The real fact is that no investment we make in our own security and peace can pay us greater dividends than necessary amounts of economic aid to friendly nations," he said.

4. Foreign Trade—Eisenhower urged Congress to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act for five years. He said world trade "strengthens our friends and increases their desire to be friends."

"As President McKinley said, as long ago as 1901: 'isolation is no longer possible or desirable. The period of exclusiveness is past.'"

5. Scientific Cooperation with Allies—Eisenhower called for approval of legislation to permit the sharing of atomic secrets with friendly nations.

6. Education and Research—He noted he had outlined previously a (Turn to Page Eight)

Pittsburgh (AP)—A 31-year old housewife, Mrs. Alice Huett, was killed today in a fire that swept through a row of Lawrenceville homes.

Eighteen other persons were driven from their homes into sub-freezing weather.

Mrs. Huett was alone when fire broke out in her home. Her husband, James, was away, and her daughter, Brenda, 2, was at the home of her grandfather.

Three alarms were sounded as the fire spread rapidly from Mrs. Huett's house to three other homes shortly before 7 a. m.

The fire was under control within an hour. Deputy Fire Chief Charles J. McDermott estimated damage at $7,500.

State Treasurer Has Plan To Finance Korean War Bonuses
Harrisburg (AP)—State Treasurer Robert F. Kent today sought backers for a plan under which he claims 150 million dollars could be paid in state bonuses to Korean War veterans without any new or increased taxes.

Kent's plan calls for postponing final payment of the bond issue for five years from 1959 to 1974—a privilege for which the commonwealth will have to pay about 18 million dollars in additional interest to banking houses.

The treasurer's dates are predicated on payment of the bonus of up to $500 a person beginning in mid 1959 after final approval

Millinery Workers Are Called Out on Nationwide Strike

New York (AP)—A nationwide strike of millinery workers was called last night after last-minute efforts to negotiate a new contract broke down.

Alex Rose, president of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers, said the strike was not directed basically against employers but against an "economic madness" by which he said large retail syndicates dictate to the millinery industry.

The union claims some 22,000 workers in women's hats in various sections of the country—about 14,000 in the New York metropolitan area. It last went out on strike in 1932.

The strike affects hat-making centers in Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, and in many cities in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

A pay boost last year, Rose said, was the first one in eight years.

Dauphin Co. Court Clears Two Men in Turnpike Frauds

Harrisburg (AP)—The Dauphin County Court today threw out conspiracy charges against two Harrisburg men in connection with purchases of equipment and furniture by the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Titusville Man Is Sentenced to Pen For Slaying Woman

New Haven, Conn. (AP)—A 26-year-old Pennsylvania iron worker yesterday was sentenced to three to five years in the state prison for the strangulation of a 41-year-old Milford mother of four during a drinking spree.

Richard E. Frost of 316 S. Martin St., Titusville, Pa., earlier had pleaded guilty to charges of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Rena Rogers, whose body was found Nov. 3 in a thickly-wooded section of Milford.

Superior Court Judge John R. Thim, in delivering the sentence, told Frost: "I think this death was brought about by the joint wantonness of both of you."

Frost has a wife and child in Pennsylvania.

State's Atty. Abraham S. Ullman said in his summary Mrs. Rogers met Frost in a Milford bar and "went with Frost to his room in a rooming house and drank vodka with him."

Ullman added: "When he asked her to have another drink she made noises and he put his hand over her mouth. But physical findings show he held onto her nose, too."

The state's attorney said he doubted Frost was trying to strangle Mrs. Rogers.

"But he was intoxicated and in trying to stifle her screams, he suffocated her," he added.

Frost put the woman's body in his car and dumped it in a wooded area, Ullman said.

Over $17,000,000,000 Spent On Missile Exploration Since Start in World War II Days

By ELTON C. FAY
Washington (P)—The United States has put more than 17 billion dollars into research, development and production of missiles since it began work on them during World War II.

All but about half a billion dollars of the total has been programmed since the beginning of the Korean War in 1950 set off the armament program.

Congressional committees are investigating or preparing to investigate the whole missile program. They will try to determine whether the Pentagon has been diligent in spending the money provided by Congress and whether it has had enough funds.

Figures made available at the Pentagon today show that $17,778,000,000 has been assigned to missile programs since "fiscal year 1946 and prior." The figure includes an estimated $4,638,000,000 for the current fiscal year, but does not take into account an extra billion dollars which Secretary of Defense McElroy has said he will ask from Congress.

A Defense Department summary said the total includes "the cost of bringing guided missile weapon systems to an operational status, research and development, production facility expansion and tooling, procurement, contract and military overhead to support missile testing and certain construction costs for research and development."

It does not include such items as the cost of running operational sites, like those for the Nike anti-aircraft missile.

From the time the services began analyzing captured German missiles late in World War II and studying development of their own weapons through June 30, 1946, the total missile program amounted to about 70 million dollars. During the 1947 fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, the outlay was 58 million dollars, then started climbing to 81 millions in 1948, and to 98 millions in 1949. It reached 134 millions in fiscal 1950—which ended about the time the Communists attacked in Korea.

Although there is little evidence that the United States was aware at that time of Russia's intensifying interest in missiles, the inception of the Korean War revealed Soviet technological capability in new jet aircraft, and along with other military spending increases, the allocation for work on U. S. missiles jumped to 784 millions in fiscal 1951.

The figure rose to $1,058,000,000 in 1952, and to $1,166,000,000 in 1953.

It dropped back a bit to $1,067,000,000 in fiscal 1954, the first full fiscal year of the Eisenhower administration.

But the program outlay moved up again to $1,470,000,000 in the year ended June 30, 1955; climbed to $2,270,000,000 the next year; to $4,284,000,000 in fiscal 1957; and to $4,638,000,000 estimated for the current year.

NOW AT LIBRARY THEATRE.

To a pair of black lace panties went the honor of the last close-up before the finish of M-G-M's "Don't Go Near the Water."

The unmentionables, much mentioned throughout the all-star comedy, based on William Brinkley's best-seller novel, were photographed from a bird's eye view as they flew from the supposed mast of a U. S. Navy cruiser. Long shots had been filmed previously aboard the cruiser, Rochester, in San Pedro Harbor, but with no means aboard the ship for "dollying" in for a near view, Director Charles Walters scheduled the shot on a studio stage to herald the end of the picture.

Starring in "Don't Go Near the Water," an Avon Production for M-G-M, produced by Lawrence Welngarten, are Glenn Ford, Gia Scala, Earl Holliman, Anne Francis, Keenan Wynn, Eva Gabor, Fred Clark, Russ Tamblyn, Jeff Richards and Mickey Shaughnessy.

DAYS LENGTHENING

An editorial from The New York Times:

Daylight has begun to linger longer into the late afternoon. That is the way the days first lengthen, with the faint, remote hint of March and April ahead. Each day's span between sunrise and sunset is a trifle longer, and by now those trifles have added up to almost fifteen minutes. The gain thus far, however, is all in the evening; the sun still rises at its latest hour in the year and will not begin to gain on itself until the end of this week. But the time of sunset has been a trace later every day for almost a month.

That is one reason for that evening light, which is often so spectacular in January. It slants over the western hills and seems to bathe the whole world in a glow as different from summer dusk as winter itself is different. This seems to be a redder light, almost rosy at times, especially on a snowless landscape. On a snowy scene it takes lavender tones, as though blue shadows on the snow were suffused with that rosy light and softened and chilled. For this is no warm glow, as the rose light from the hearth fire is warm; this light is cold, cold as the sky itself. And it lingers only a little while, then fades into dusk. The brittle, echoey dusk of winter.

As dusk closes in on a cold January night the sky often takes on that icy green tinge, almost apple green, close to the horizon. When that comes build up the fire and close tight the doors, for the mercury will be low. But even that icy warning light comes later, day by day, now. And each sunset marks another winter day ticked off, another day toward spring.

CONGRESS: THE SECOND ROUND

The 85th Congress, in its second session, faces perhaps the biggest test that American lawmakers have confronted since World War II. It will be judged by the way it rises to the necessities put upon this country by Russia's advances in satellites and missiles.

President Eisenhower's administration is being measured in the same fashion, of course. But our government does not end at the White House gates. Congress has its own responsibilities for the safety and well being of the American people.

Some already have judged the President and found him wanting in leadership. They appeal to Congress to fill the gap.

Whether or not the criticisms are just, the critics certainly recognize that there are limits, too, on what the lawmakers can do.

The 531 men and women of the House and Senate cannot function as an executive body. For one thing, the Constitution forbids it. For another, effective decision is well nigh impossible from such numbers.

But wherever the administration's programs for the missile age seem to reflect timidity, narrow scope, or lack of imagination, the lawmakers can try to give them the sweep and breadth and positiveness they ought to have.

What the country has a right to expect of them in this situation is not a routine rubber stamp on the President's proposals, but a searching appraisal and then a revamping where that is deemed wise.

Inevitably, many lawmakers are mere followers. But Congress basically is intended to be a creative agency in American government. At no time in this country has there been greater need for its creative powers to be exercised to the fullest.

Attention is called to the fact that the YMCA Industrial Management Association is opening its dinner meeting to the public next Monday evening at Beaty Cafeteria to provide an opportunity for all who may desire to see and hear the unusual traveling exhibit and talk on "The Story of Measurement," sponsored by the Do All Company of Des Plaines, Ill. Special mention is made of the fact that students are cordially urged to attend. Reservations may be made in advance by calling the YMCA, and it really sounds like an unusual entertainment.

THOUGHTS FOR TODAY

It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor anything whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.

So act that your principle of action might safely be made the rule of the world. —Immanuel Kant

Here and There

Many in the area will be interested in learning that a representative of the Clyde Beatty Circus is dickering with officers and members of the local Chapter of the Junior Chamber of Commerce for appearance of the tented attraction in or adjacent to Warren some time in the early spring, probably during the latter part of May. The circus is scheduled to play Oil City May 23rd under the auspices of the Optimist Club, and it is expected that the Warren date would be around that time. The Beatty circus this year is reported as the world's largest show under canvas. James Winters, the contract agent, explained the big top measures 150x300 feet, and will seat approximately 6,000 persons. This year again it will feature Clyde Beatty and his wild animal act, in which he works 20 minutes at one time. Dick Cook, club president, says final details are to be worked out at a meeting with the agent including the site for the circus.

Announcement of a new railroad that was under consideration in the section, as carried in the Warren Ledger of seventy years ago, has this to say: "A new railroad has been chartered under the title of 'The Allegheny & Kinzua Railroad'. The road will be built and operated by the Allegheny Lumber company, and its principal purpose is for moving and marketing the timber on the large tract of densely covered woodlands through which it will be built. It will enter a hitherto trackless and unbroken forest mainly in the townships of Red House and South Valley, N. Y., and Corydon and Hamilton, Pa., furnishing railroad facilities for moving the product of the Charles, Bay State and Stone tracts, which are largely controlled by the Allegheny Lumber company, with whom is prominently associated the Hon. E. E. Schoonmaker, of Limestone. The Ocean Times says the road will have about fifteen miles of main line and as many more miles of branches. The route selected will begin at the terminus of the West Branch railroad, a division of the N. Y., L. E. & W. in the town of Bradford, and follow the ridge or

'divide' between the head waters of the Tuna and its branches and the Allegheny river, passing through the towns of Hamilton and Corydon, and conducting with the river division of the W.N.Y. & P., at some accessible point in the town of Red House. From this main line branches will be built down the valleys of Willow Creek, Sugar Run, Quaker Run and the big and little Red House creeks and such other sidings and switches as may be necessary to reach the various saw mills in the tract. The road will be substantially built, supplied with first-class steel rails and thoroughly equipped. Several carloads of steel rails have already been delivered at the West Branch end of the line, and the work of construction has been begun. A large force of men will be employed, and work pushed as rapidly as possible. Mr. Ennis states that the road will be finished, equipped, and in operation by the first of June next. While the primal purpose of the road is for hauling timber, and well supplies, it will also do a passenger business and will be well equipped for that purpose. The road will have a large freight traffic, besides doing the business for the company operating it."

Also from the 1888 file: "The first annual meeting of the Warren Business Association held in Mozart hall Tuesday evening of this week, L. D. Wetmore, Esq., in the chair, W. A. Rankin acting as secretary. The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting, which were approved. The minutes showed that there is a board of managers numbering fifteen. President Wetmore then made a speech intending to show the advantage Warren possesses for manufacturing, particularly in the way of fuel. The president stated the troubles throughout the country and he had learned that manufacturers wished to get away from the thickly populated towns, and open business in country towns where labor was less liable to the influence of strikes. He spoke of the vast amount of natural gas, its cheapness to the manufacturer. The future was full of promise, he said. He wanted industries located here that would bring with them the best brains and the most skilled hands. He called upon the secretary to state what progress had been made during the last year in the way of bringing enterprises to Warren. The secretary read a number of letters showing there had been some correspondence, but so far nothing had been accomplished more than that one refinery had located in Glade."

Is U.S. Losing Ability To Fight 'Limited' Wars?

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—There's a great fear among many top Army officers and other Pentagon experts that the sudden preoccupation with speeding the development of long-range ballistic missiles will wreck U.S. ability to fight small or limited wars. Ever since America's defense has been focused on building a strong retaliatory air force as the best way to keep Russia from starting World War III, the Army has been worried about this problem. With new billions now about to be thrown into the ballistic missile program their fears are more acute.

A recent session of the American Ordnance Association which was devoted to this problem pinpointed some weakness which the U.S. defense plan already suffers in this area and the research needed to correct the situation.

C. C. FURNAS, chancellor of the University of Buffalo and a military expert, told the meeting that the Army's family of tactical guided missiles could turn out to be dangerously vulnerable to enemy jamming and other electronic countermeasures.

Furnas said that it is possible that a study of this problem could turn out "on the grim side" and force a complete overhaul of the whole Army missile program. He pointed out another weakness: inability to detect targets. "Our present equipment for reconnaissance by visual, radar or infrared methods is inadequate and the best weapons are essentially useless unless the target can be detected and located with considerable exactness," he explains.

THE RECENT RUSSIAN REVELATION that they had developed a method of launching fighter planes from the battlefield with rockets, and without air strips, indicates how concerned Soviet strategists are with developing limited war techniques. The U.S. Air Force has also developed such a launching system, but work on it has been virtually abandoned, it was revealed. Hall Hibbard, vice president of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation, says, "Based on considerable analysis, the logistics-by-air is one of the most promising applications for nuclear propulsion." "A development of this kind," he added, "would eliminate the need for intermediate staging stops as well as reduce greatly the overseas fuel storage requirements."

HIBBARD REVEALED THAT there is a "ray of hope" for solving the complex problems a pilot has trying to navigate over a battlefield under conditions of poor visibility. "It's a recently declassified development being sponsored by the Navy called the Contact Analogue System. In this the pilot sees a presentation on a flat TV tube, rather than being required to interpret dozens of instrument dials. Input data from altimeters, radars and other instruments are integrated and displayed on the screen so as to construct an artificial duplicate of the actual scene ahead of the airplane." Work on this project is also in serious need of more funds. Furnas said of dependence on tactical atomic weapons: "I should like to urge the use of very great discretion in the use of nuclear warheads, if we should become involved in another limited war. If the United States should use one first, the negative propaganda impact on the rest of the world would be tremendous. We should not fire it unless we are psychologically and physically prepared to go the whole way through World War III, if necessary."

About the only people who really wake up and find themselves rich are boxers.

"YOU'RE getting almost as gray as I am," the man said to the woman friend he hadn't seen in several years. Men are used to making remarks like that to each other. But a man ought not to forget that such a remark to a woman is not regarded as kidding—but as tactless.

Mrs. Bertha Akeley announces the marriage of her daughter, Blanche, to Clayton Roger Bakstrom, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bakstrom of Bemus Point, N. Y., in a ceremony performed December 29 in First Baptist church of Kennedy, N. Y., by the Rev. Louis E. Showers.

The bride was attractively attired in a pink wool dress, with which she wore a pink feathered hat, brown accessories, and a tea rose corsage.

Her only attendant was her sister, Mrs. Edna Witz, wearing a blue wool frock, matching accessories and corsage of tea roses.

Kenneth Kiser, Warren, served as best man.

Dinner for the bridal party was served at the Colony dining room in Lakewood, N. Y., after which the couple left for a wedding trip to Cleveland, O.

Mrs. Bakstrom, graduate of Mount Sinai School of Nursing in Cleveland, is on the staff of WCA Hospital in Jamestown. Mr. Bakstrom, following a Navy career, returned to his base at Key West, Fla.

EASTERN STAR CHAPTER HEARS ABOUT DIAMONDS

The fabulous world of romantic and historic legend associated with nine of the world's most famous diamonds was described for Warren Eastern Star members, at their Tuesday evening meeting, when the speaker was Miss Claire Trussell, Member of the public relations group of Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. Miss Trussell used as the topic for her lecture-demonstration "Diamonds Are Different."

Describing these famous gems, Miss Trussell displayed actual replicas, and further illustrated her talk with beautifully colored slides made by photographing old tapestries, portraits and etchings.

Introduced to her audience by Robert Anstett, local Bell manager, the speaker also described uses of industrial diamonds by Western Electric Company, manufacturing and supply unit of the Bell system, in drawing the copper wire which carried the voice from one telephone to another.

HIT RECORD AVERAGE IN JAMESTOWN TOURNAMENT

Local players did right nicely in the monthly Master Point game of Jamestown Bridge Center, with Dr. R. H. Israel and D. L. Votera scoring 122, or 73.2%, for the highest pair game percentage in the club's history. Also in this East-West field, Mrs. David Cropp paired with Mrs. Ross Beatty of Jamestown for an 88½ fourth place.

Playing North-South, Mrs. Anabel Duff was paired with R. H. Larsen, Jamestown, for a high of 102; Mrs. Adele Holland, Warren, with Mrs. Harry Hendrickson, 92 for third position.

An afternoon game, sponsored by the club, will begin at 1:00 p. m. this Friday in the Jamestown American Legion Home, a series of the best four out of six sessions to be figured on the usual percentage basis.

Also during that week, the annual Warren-Forrest County Council dinner will be held in Warren, the time and place to be announced. The annual cookie sale will be slated for some time in March or April; and all were reminded their next club meeting will be held the first Monday in March.

Serving as refreshments committee for this month were Mrs. Dick Littlefield, Mrs. William Warner, Mrs. Henry Brooks and Mrs. Lee Peeples.

BLUE STOCKING CLUB MID-YEAR LUNCHEON

Members of Blue Stocking Club held their mid-year luncheon at First Baptist church Tuesday, with 23 members and eight guests attending. Mrs. H. H. Barr gave the invocation as the group gathered at a table centered with a beautiful arrangement of pink snapdragons, white mums, and candles. Hostesses were Miss Margaret Wright and Mrs. Harold Hampson.

After a delicious luncheon, the president, Mrs. Carl Whipple, conducted the business session. Club members and guests joined her in reading the Club Collect. Mrs. C. L. Thompson reported CARE packages had been sent to Hong Kong, India, Peru, and Pakistan.

Mrs. Hampson, program chairman, presented Mrs. Norman Johnson, who very ably and entertainingly reviewed Marion Anderson's autobiography "My Lord, What a Morning." In conclusion, the group enjoyed a recording of "Ave Maria."

Next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Beecher M. Rutledge January 21.

You Don't Need a Guide to Follow These Conversations

CAN you guess whether it's Mama or Papa speaking?
"I'm not being hard on the boy. He simply has to learn to take responsibility."
"You expect too much of him. After all, he's only a child."
"What do you mean she has to have a new formal? What's the matter with the one she has?"
"After all, you can't expect her to wear the same dress to every dance. Besides, all her friends are getting new dresses for the Junior Prom."
"Quit worrying about that boy. He's old enough to take care of himself."
"You can go to bed if you want to, but I'm going to wait up for Junior."

MORE DISCUSSION

"THAT boy friend of Dorothy's must think he lives here. Doesn't he have a home of his own?"
"Shsh. . . Do you want him to hear you? You'll embarrass Dorothy to death!"
"A 14-year-old boy having to send a corsage to a girl for a high school dance! That's the silliest thing I ever heard of."
"Girls expect corsages. Of course, he has to send her one."
"That's the laziest kid I ever saw. All he does around this house is eat and sleep. When I was his age . . ."
"You forget he's a growing boy. Besides, I'll bet you were just as lazy as he is when you were his age."
"You guessed it right every time. How could you have missed?"

Shock Colors for Resort Wear

They Blaze in Combinations

BY GAILE DUGAS
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The colors that make a big splash in the resort collections are the ones you'll be seeing this summer, too. They're shock colors this year. Orange and hot orange-reds, brilliant yellows, apricot and lime tones, and a whole range of rosy to deep pinks.

Plaids are plentiful in these collections. Though some are pastel, there are a noticeable number of bold and dazzling plaids in intense color combinations. It's not at all uncommon for orange and red to get together in the same plaid. If you're wondering how this works out, it's very pretty.

We show here two dresses from the resort collections, both by top designers. Both make bold use of color, both look fresh and sparkling.

Plaid (left) is in gold, green and bronze. It has a double-fold bodice which can be untied at the neck to drop down into a peplum with a puffed look. This is a Brigitte design. Cocktail dress by Herbert Sondheim (right) is in a blazing pink cotton that has a lustrous look.

Warren Teachers To Have Individual Participation in Leader Conference

Having received his formal invitation to participate in Governor Leader's Conference on Improvement of Instruction scheduled in Harrisburg January 28-29, Curriculum Director Gerald M. Newton is asking that every instructor in the Warren School System share in that momentous event through submission of personal suggestions for the program.

At the Warren High School faculty meeting Wednesday afternoon, Mr. Newton distributed to each member a mimeographed memorandum which, when returned, will provide him an over-all picture of the individual's wishes.

The printed form asks: "Do you advocate a longer school day? Do you advocate more days of school per year? If you were going to attend a conference in the interest of better instruction for the children of Warren, what 'big ideas' would you offer?"

"Inaccurate comparisons are made between the education of Europe's top 25% with the education of our top 75%. Much has been made of science and mathematics education, although cautions have been raised to be sure to educate 'the student in all areas.' We are pulled one way to educate for mass conformity and in the other way for education of individually different citizens.

"If you were going to attend the Governor's Conference on January 28-29, what 'big ideas' would you suggest?"

These same forms will be distributed to East Junior High School teachers at their Monday faculty meeting; elementary teachers will receive their copies from principals of their individual buildings.

In this way, all will be given opportunity of sharing in the ideas Mr. Newton will present at the conference sessions, and returns should be made sufficiently early to permit him time for thorough study of the suggestions and their incorporation into his presentation.

Mid-Winter Activities Of Catholic Daughters

The January meeting of Court Warren, Catholic Daughters, was held last evening in St. Joseph's hall with a fairly good attendance considering the cold weather.

Many items of importance, reports from various chairmen and announcements of the future were heard. Of special interest was the final report of the bazaar by Mrs. Nancy Shaffer, who also thanked each and every one who helped in any way to make this affair a success in spite of the bad weather.

Mrs. Marie McGarry expressed her thanks to her committee and members for the enjoyable Christmas party.

Mrs. Mary Kotmair read an interesting report of Volunteer work being done at the State Hospital and asked for more workers from the Court.

Mrs. Gertrude Ruhlman gave a report of the building pledges and it was announced that members should endeavor to complete their pledges soon.

It was mentioned that Mary Mills is quite ill in Warren General Hospital and would appreciate a card. She is in room 208.

Highlight of the important announcements was the date and plans for the Day of Recollection to be held on January 26 at Holy Redeemer church for all ladies of Warren and vicinity, starting with a Mass at 8:00 a. m. and continuing with devotions at 12:30 to 4:00 p. m.

It was also voted to hold a tea immediately afterward in the church basement and in order that members may attend all the devotions this will be a catered affair. Therefore reservations will be made by January 25, by calling Fern Hesch—2051, or Nancy Shaffer—2365-W.

Mrs. Mary DiPierro, chairman for the Communion Breakfast, announced that it will be held April 27 with breakfast in the Knights of Columbus hall. Details will be announced later.

A delicious lunch was served by the committee in charge. A few tables of cards were played afterward and the new card tables were put to use.

World War 1 Auxiliary Has Dinner-Installation

A delicious tureen dinner was enjoyed Monday evening at the Stoneham community house by Veterans of World War I and their Ladies' Auxiliary.

Following that meal, officers of the Auxiliary were installed in the presence of Post members by the department president, Mrs. Jennie Goughnour, Uniontown. Comprising the new slate are the following:

President, Aga Johnson; senior vice president, Signe Peterson; junior vice president, Garnet Stewart; treasurer, Mabel Blair; secretary, Anna Nelson; chaplain, Linna Knight; conductress, Marion Morley; guard, Ella Hanna; trustees, Agnes Gnage, Emma Miller and Dora Manning.

Next regular meeting of the ladies' group will be held at the same place February 2.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS PLAN FOR FUTURE

The monthly meeting of Warren County Chapter, Gold Star Mothers of America, was held Monday evening at the American Legion Home, with President Gerda Carlson in charge. Donations were voted to 10 veterans hospitals throughout the state, including the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Erie.

Each Gold Star chapter is assessed a quota each year for these various hospitals and the local unit has received recognition from the state group for always having met its stated amount. It was reported the immediate past state president, Lenore Dick, is ill in Allegheny Hospital in Pittsburgh.

Much credit was given Elizabeth Shepard for sending 85 decks of cards to veterans' hospitals in the name of the local chapter. Members were reminded a rummage sale will be held in the spring; also that Youth Ambassador Dawn Taft is scheduled to speak and show pictures at the February chapter meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton W. Lesser, 404 Palmer street, Jamestown, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Marie Christine to David T. Lindahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Warren Sixth Graders Make Excellent Showing

Among year-end reports being assembled by Warren public school officials is one dealing with test results, comparison with statistics from other schools disclosing sixth graders in Warren have an excellent record in reading and language.

Summing up, the report states: Recent tests given to sixth graders were printed forms, as given throughout the nation. They showed how this year's sixth graders compared with other children of a similar age and grade. One tested reading, both vocabulary and comprehension. The other was on English grammar and spelling.

Can Johnnie read? The answer is yes! 57% of the sixth graders did as well as the usual best 25%. This means that 32% more Warren children were in the best group than the national average. Only 8% of Warren sixth graders were in the lowest group, where the national average is 25%. The children did equally well on vocabulary and comprehension.

Contrary to some critics, our sixth graders can spell even better than the national average. In spelling, 36% were in the top group and only 13% in the lowest group, rather than the usual 25% of the national average. In English and grammar they did even better, with 42% in the best group and only 9% in the lowest, rather than 25%.

Former tests have shown that this group is a capable one. It should be a pleasure to parents; is particularly gratifying to teachers, when results of standardized tests are so outstanding.

Members learned how to grow good healthy plants, the right temperatures, and how to treat different diseases. In conclusion, she emphasized how one "can find peace, happiness and contentment in this hobby."

The committee for the social hour was comprised of Mrs. Ayers, Retta Finney and Mrs. C. H. Whitaker.

IN APPRECIATION

Since it is impossible for us personally to thank everyone who has expressed their friendship and sympathy in the injury and homegoing of our daughter, Judy Cartwright, we would like to take this means to convey our heart-felt gratitude to all. The kindness, love, and generosity of such a multitude of people goes far in lifting the heartache and burden brought by Judy's injury, illness, and death.

broad program calling for spending about a billion dollars annually for four years to strengthen educational and research facilities.

7. Spending and Saving—The federal budget for the year starting July 1 will include about four billion dollars more than the budget for the year which began July 1, 1957, for defense purposes. Eisenhower said the extra money will go for such things as missiles, nuclear ships, atomic energy, and research and development.

Eisenhower said as to budget prospects: "While we now believe that expected revenues and expenditures will roughly balance, our real purpose will be to achieve adequate security, but always with the utmost regard for efficiency and careful management."

"Such related matters as the national debt ceiling and tax revenues will be dealt with in later messages."

8. Works of Peace—"My last call for action is not primarily addressed to the Congress and people of the United States. Rather, it is a message from the people of the United States to all other peoples, especially those of the Soviet Union," he said.

Winding up his address, the President said the actions he had outlined would call on the American people for both sacrifice and a high degree of understanding.

The irrigation loan is repayable in 12 years at 2½ per cent interest; the loan for the factory in five years. The length of the loan from Red China, which will go for a textile factory, has not been worked out.

THE MARKETS

New York (P)—The stock market was mixed in quiet trading early today. Leading stocks showed narrow changes and several were unchanged. Wall street was awaiting President Eisenhower's State of the Union message to cue it as to the immediate outlook. The opening was fairly active but showed nothing in the way of outstanding group action. A mood of caution prevailed. Production cuts and slow retail sales in the auto industry, the drop in the price of copper and a continuation of the cut in crude oil prices in the Southwest were factors.

SATELLITE COMMITTEE
AP Special Washington Service.
Washington (P)—Establishment of a joint congressional committee on earth satellites and the problems of outer space was proposed today by Sen. Javits (R-NY) and Rep. Fulton (R-Pa.).

IKI'S SCIENCE EDUCATION PLAN

One billion dollars in Federal funds to be spent over four-year period plus 550-600 million dollars in state matching funds. States to have wide control at all levels.

—$100 MILLION—
To obtain more and better science teachers, improve science equipment.

HOW 225 MILLION DOLLARS WOULD BE SPENT IN FIRST YEAR:

—$20 MILLION—
To finance aptitude tests of students in 7th-9th grades.
To improve student counseling and higher education guidance.

—$8 MILLION—
To apportion 10,000 scholarships among the states.

—$12 MILLION—
To award graduate fellowships to future teachers.

—$5 MILLION—
To establish and operate foreign language training centers.

—$80 MILLION—
To National Science Foundation in programs assisting science education.

THE ANSWER TO SPUTNIK?—President Eisenhower has called for a four-year, 1.6 billion-dollar program to spur science education for the missile and satellite age. Newschart, above, shows how the money is to be spent. Drafted by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the seven-point program allows wide latitude to the states in the spending of the funds. Even so, indications are that the proposal faces heavy going in Congress—from those who oppose all Federal aid to education, from those who say the plan does not allow Washington enough control over the states and from those who claim the program fails to meet the nation's needs.

TRAPPED, RESCUED, SAFE—Trapped in her third-floor burning apartment in Boston, left, Mrs. Alice Collins, 39, waits to be rescued. Saved by a fireman, center, Mrs. Collins is lifted from the window and on her way to safety. At right, the dazed woman is pictured before she was rushed to a hospital for treatment of her burns.

AND THE BAND PLAYED ON—The body of a suicide lying on the pavement at left doesn't stop Chile's Presidential Band from marching briskly by in Santiago on their way to the Palacio de la Moneda. The dead man was identified as Lautaro Becerra. He leaped from the ninth floor of the Agriculture Ministry Building.

SUGAR GROVE

Sugar Grove—Relatives who have visited Charles Swanson and daughter, Cheryl Anne, of Parma Heights, O., still confined to Meadville City Hospital following an auto accident, report both are improving and expect to be discharged later this week, after which they will go south for two weeks recuperation. The accident, which occurred Christmas Eve, while they were en route here for a visit, claimed the life of Mrs. Swanson.

The Women's Auxiliary of Sugar Grove Volunteer Fire Department had an enjoyable Christmas party which included dinner and a gift exchange. Mrs. Scott Stuart, Jr., presided at a brief business session, when plans were made for serving the annual firemen's dinner.

Recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Scott and daughter, Ruth Anne, have included Mrs. Helen Johnson, Lottsville; Clyde Johnson, Penn State University; Dr. and Mrs. Brock Powell; White Sands Proving Ground, Ariz. The Scotts also entertained at a dinner party honoring the birthday anniversary of Robert Warner. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Morrison and son, Brian, of Panama; Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Arisman, Jamestown; Clyde Johnson, Lottsville; Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Storms and family, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Warner, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Warner and daughter, Cynthia.

Mrs. Ethel Bloomster has had a telephone call from her daughter, Doris, who is doing missionary work among the Indians at Bisti, N. M., under the Methodist Mission Board. Miss Bloomster had just returned to her work after spending the holidays with her sister and family, Rev. and Mrs. Gene Elliott, at Florence, Ore., and with friends in Canyonville, Ore.

Mrs. J. A. McIntosh entertained Bridge Club Monday evening, with honors going to Mrs. Conrad Youngberg. Guests were Mrs. Gerald Younle and Mrs. William Norbeck.

BARNES
Barnes—Activities of many kinds have occupied folks of this community through the holiday period, with several enjoyable New Year's parties and family gatherings. Despite cold weather and slippery road conditions, many relatives got together and children enjoyed a holiday extending through this past weekend.

Philip Alling has returned to Humboldt Institute in Minneapolis after enjoying two weeks at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Alling.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Curtin, with Jack Pierce, left Tuesday morning aboard El Capital, out of Chicago, for San Diego, Calif., where they plan to spend some time with relatives.

Article in Medical Magazine Of Interest to Area Residents

We are indebted to a member of the Warren Medical Society for calling attention to the following interesting article concerning a former well known local family, which appeared in a recent issue of "SCOPE Weekly," well known medical publication. Under the heading "Eye Diseases Investigated in American Samoa," the following report on eye problems in that far-off country was written for SCOPE Weekly by Mrs. Davis J. Durham, who accompanied her husband, Dr. Durham, (son of Dr. and Mrs. J. R. Durham, former residents of Market street) on a recent trip to the island:

A survey of ophthalmologic problems in American Samoa has recently been completed by Drs. Davis G. Durham, of Wilmington, Del., and Max Hirschfelder, of Centralia, Ill. The survey was initiated at the suggestion of the Governor of the island, the Honorable Peter T. Coleman, and was supervised and directed by the Medical Director of the American Hospital, Dr. John E. Kennedy. The survey was intended to evaluate the ophthalmologic situation, to make suggestions for future education of the natives, and, in particular, to attempt to analyze the etiology of so-called Samoan conjunctivitis, which has long been recognized as a problem of undetermined diagnosis.

Although many outpatients were examined in the hospital clinic, field trips to outlying villages were conducted. A native nurse accompanied the group mainly to serve as an interpreter. These visits to villages were conducted in the natives' grass-roofed homes, known as fale. Electricity was not available, so patients who appeared to need further study were sent into the town of Pago Pago for further examination in the hospital.

The population of American Samoa is approximately 19,000. Drs. Durham and Hirschfelder reviewed 564 patients. In evaluating the following statistics, it must be remembered that the Samoan natives stoically accept having "red, sore eyes," that fine vision and stereopsis are not absolutely necessary to their way of life, and that a thorough history was impossible to obtain partly due to the language barrier.

Surgery was performed on approximately 23 patients, in the majority for cataracts. Eighty-two patients had vision in one eye below 20/100, and 103 patients had vision below 20/100 in both eyes. A large majority of these reduced visions were "finger-count" or completely blind. All but three glaucomas were secondary.

Only three squints were true strabismus; the remaining nine were the result of eyes blinded by trauma or disease. The large number of refractions completed may be misleading as most examinations indicated no need for lenses. Samoans are almost universally hyperopic, only three or four cases of myopia being found.

Of the 564 patients evaluated, the following breakdown is possible:

Pterygium	157
Glaucoma	28
Trachoma	78
Cataract	39
Refraction	181
Squint	12
Phyctenular keratoconjunctivitis	15
Miscellaneous	54

It was difficult to keep in mind how young the Samoan population is—about half of the natives being under 20 years of age. Dr. Kennedy has found the children amazingly free of ocular disease.

Dr. Kennedy and his fine staff of physicians are assisted by Samoan Medical Practitioners, native men trained in medical work in the territories or in the States. It was strongly suggested that these SMPs carry on the educational work through native district nurses.

It was felt that there was no question but what Samoan conjunctivitis is trachoma. It is a chronic type, found to be stage 3 or stage 4 of McCallan's classification. Lid scrapings were taken, and a laboratory report will be forthcoming. This problem, although not the commonest, seen, should certainly receive special attention in coming years.

Drs. Durham and Hirschfelder felt that their experiences in beautiful Samoa were stimulating and rewarding. Eye disease appears not to be a major problem, except in obvious cases of neglect. The degenerative diseases were statistically unimportant, as were the usual childhood conditions such as strabismus, ptosis, blocked nasolacrimal ducts, and myopia. Certainly the ocular problems are not as serious as the medical problems of scabies, impetigo, tuberculosis, leprosy, and, above all, filariasis.

PRIDE OF TOLEDO—Frank Stranahan, the only millionaire golf pro in the world, gets kissed by his wife, Anne, as he hands her the winner's check for $7,000 from the Los Angeles Open. The Toledo, Ohio, spark plug heir came in with a 275 total, three strokes ahead of the field in the four-day, 72-hole match.

NICE TRICK, IF YOU CAN DO IT—A close shave—too close—results in Harvey Richmond, left, 14, and Philip Swain, 13, getting all lathered up as their first barbering customer blows his top. The boys were at the National Schoolboys' Exhibition in London, England, and were doing fine at the delicate job of shaving a balloon until Philip nicked it with the razor.

New Record Sets in Sylvania Sales in 1957 President Says

New York—Sales of Sylvania Electric Products Inc. in 1957 set a new record high for the company as the result of continued strong volume in the company's diversified product lines, reflecting further growth of the electrical-electronics industry to a new record level, according to Don G. Mitchell, chairman and president.

Mr. Mitchell predicted that the company's sales in 1958 will "substantially exceed the 1957 record, possibly by as much as 10 per cent, depending upon the duration of the economic adjustment."

He expressed confidence that "1958 will be a good business year as a whole, even though there will be soft spots in certain areas of the economy." He predicted further that the adjustment will end during the second half and that the Gross National Product for the full year will reach a new record high of about $440 billion compared with about $434 billion in 1957.

Sylvania's final sales figures for 1957 are not yet available, but Mr. Mitchell said the year's volume had exceeded the record of $332 million in 1956. The 1956 total was adjusted to include the sales volume of Argus Cameras, Inc., then an independent company, which became a division of Sylvania on January 2, 1957.

Final earnings figures for 1957 have not yet been compiled, but Mr. Mitchell said they will not equal those of 1956, which amounted to $4.10 a common share, adjusted for Argus. He cited such factors as the television industry adjustment during the first half of 1957, the continued industry-wide price squeeze in some of the company's more profitable lines, large outlays for research and development in a number of new fields, and unusually heavy expenditures for new manufacturing facilities, especially in broader mechanization and automation.

These factors were accentuated further, he added, by the general softening of the general economy as a whole in the second half of 1957, and particularly the fourth quarter.

Three primary factors, the Sylvania chief executive said, were responsible for the company's 1957 sales gain, and prompted him to forecast a further gain in 1958, as well as a steadily increasing volume over the next five years.

"The foremost factor is the continuing great strength of the American economy," he said, "despite the current 'downturn' which really represents a transition period while inventories are no longer accumulated, but liquidated, and while the economy shifts from capital goods spending as in 1956-1957 to consumer and government spending in 1958. We expect the economy to be in high gear again by the latter part of 1958."

The second factor is the increasingly rapid growth of the electrical-electronics industry, he explained, while the third "is the far greater stability of the television set industry, especially toward the end of 1957, after passing through a long period of 'feast or famine'."

There are many indications that the industry will no longer be subject to some of the drastic adjustments which have characterized it in the past.

He cited as strong points in the 1958 economic picture, increased defense spending, especially in the electronic defense and missile fields; a probable increase in residential construction in the second half of 1958; expected increases in state and local government spending, especially for schools and highways, and an upward move of consumer income and consumer spending next year.

COASTING FATALITY

Jamestown Suni Everet, "Mack" Peterson, 12, of the Dutch Hollow Road, Ellery Center, died in WCA Hospital at 4:15 a. m. Wednesday of injuries suffered in a toboggan accident in Allegheny State Park Saturday. The boy died of a brain injury. Coroner Samuel T. Bowers said Wednesday night. The Peterson boy was a seventh grader in Bemus Point Central School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everet Peterson. He was one of five lads on the toboggan that struck the car of Park Ranger Alonzo Sharpe, 30, of Red House, near the Administration Building, Saturday afternoon. The youngsters were on a confirmation class party in the park and attended Lutheran Immanuel Church. Three of the other boys were injured in the accident while the other boy was able to jump from the sled to safety.

The Peterson boy was taken to Salamanca District Hospital, then transferred to WCA Hospital later in the day. Sunday afternoon he was operated on and a ruptured kidney was removed. He also suffered a broken elbow in the accident.

ABOUT TIME—18 MONTHS

Cumberland, Md. — A Clearfield, Pa., motorist was sentenced to 18 months in jail on three traffic charges this week by a magistrate who described his driving record as "one of the worst I've ever seen."

William W. Whorton, 27, was given six months on each charge by Magistrate Donald W. Mason. Whorton, former Flintstone, Md., resident, was found guilty of reckless driving, speeding and driving after his license had been revoked.

Mason said he imposed the severe penalty after learning Whorton had been convicted previously of driving after his license revocation, drunken driving, speeding and six reckless driving counts. The magistrate said Whorton had paid about $1,000 in fines for the previous convictions but had never served a sentence. He pointed out that under Maryland law a sentence is mandatory after a person is convicted on a second charge of driving after a license revocation.

Three Farm

Keystone Farmer Degree and how they were awarded. He congratulated the Chamber of Commerce for its part in honoring the students and for winning a Citation from the Future Farmers state association which will be presented to the organization at the state farm show in Harrisburg next week.

Chairman Peterson called on the three students to tell about their farm activities and each gave a highly interesting account of their progress. Paul Johnson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Johnson of Lottsville and a senior in Youngsville High School. Paul is very active in school activities being president of Youngsville Chapter F. F. A., secretary of Warren-Forest-Elk Area F. F. A., a member of chorus and band and ranks in the upper bracket of his class scholastically.

Young Johnson raised 4 swine, 1 dairy heifer, 1/10 acre garden, 8 acres oats, 600 chicks and 550 laying hens. His labor income from these projects amounted to $1,333.76 and, in addition, he worked for his neighbors so that his total cash, livestock, and other investments amounted to $2,731.55.

Nineteen-year-old Delbert L. Wagner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Wagner, Tionesta RD 1 and graduate of West Forest Joint High School in 1956. He has been secretary and treasurer of the local F. F. A. chapter, vice president of Warren-Forest-Elk Council, member of Lutheran Church at Venus, and played varsity basketball.

In 1956-57 Delbert raised 1 purebred Guernsey Cow, 1 grade Guernsey cow, 11 acres corn, 11 acres oats, and 4.5 acres wheat. He had similar achievements each year since 1952 under a supervised farming program. In 1956 he was chairman of arrangements for the Parents-Son F. F. A. Banquet.

John L. Wagner, the third winner, is son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Russell Wagner, Tionesta RD 1 and a senior in West Forest Joint High School. He is president of West Forest Chapter F. F. A., president of Warren-Forest-Elk Area Council of Future Farmers and member of Lutheran Church. As a participant in the supervised farming program since 1954 his activities were climaxed last year by raising 3 purebred Brown Swiss cows, 2 purebred Brown Swiss heifers, 3 purebred Brown Swiss calves, 17 acres corn, 15 acres oats, 1 acre truck crops.

John is very active in school activities as well as in F. F. A. work; he was president of Redbrush Community 4-H club, treasurer of his Freshman class, president of 4-H tractor maintenance club, and played varsity baseball and basketball. Last year he was area delegate to State F. F. A. meeting at Penn State University.

Chamber leaders present for the ceremonies were Mr. Peterson, Floyd Carter, Elmer Lundahl, William Walker, Robert Anstadt, and President Paul Harrington.

Letters to Editor

6 January 1958

The Editor
Warren Times-Mirror
Times Square
Warren, Pennsylvania

Dear Sir:

Apparent lack of factual information on the Kinzua Dam (Allegheny River Reservoir), inspires letters such as the one which recently appeared in the Warren Times-Mirror.

The writer was proposing small dams on tributaries as a substitute for the large dam on the main stream. This plan had been carefully studied by the U. S. Army Engineers, and it was rejected because development of cities, towns and railroads, etc. in these valleys with one exception, made it impracticable and uneconomical. In addition if it were feasible to construct small dams on each of the six tributaries they would only control a drainage area of 1,170 square miles compared to the 2,190 square miles which would be brought under control by the Allegheny River Reservoir.

The Corps of Engineers recognizes the merits of small dams. They are the proper engineering and economic solution to flood control problems in some areas. But because they met the need in other geographic locations, means little in the solution of our current flood problem in the Allegheny River valley.

The writer vaguely hints at siting in large dams. Again, factual investigations made at eight of our operation reservoirs have disclosed that the life of the reservoirs based on measured siltation, range from a minimum of 250 years up to 5,000 years with an average life of 1898 years.

In this communication to your paper, recreation is completely ruled out at the Kinzua Dam. Factually again, during the year 1956 (1957 figures are not yet available) over three million people visited the reservoir areas for recreational purposes. Over 138,000 pounds of fish were caught by fishermen in two reservoirs alone. The lake created by the proposed Kinzua Dam will certainly provide the same opportunity for public recreation which is enjoyed at the other ten reservoirs.

Another erroneous supposition is that Pittsburgh will benefit most by the construction of this dam and reservoir. Important cities such as Warren and Oil City and others above Pittsburgh on the Allegheny River and Steubenville, Ohio, Wheeling, West Virginia and more, on the Ohio River will certainly benefit. The Army Engineers in its extensive studies on the project, have found the cost to be justified by the estimated average annual benefits exceeding the estimated annual charges. Ratio of benefits 1.62 to 1. The annual charges cover interest on the investment, amortization of the investment, maintenance and operation. The benefits include those from flood control, industrial water supply, domestic water, supply and pollution abatement in approximately 200 mile reach of the Allegheny River valley below the dam site and in the Ohio River valley which has a length of 981 miles. It cannot be forgotten that projects such as the Kinzua or Allegheny River Reservoir, are initiated by people in the affected areas and not by recommendation of the Corps of Engineers, US Army. Congress has authorized the project and appropriated money to start construction.

In conclusion, important as the Allegheny River Reservoir may be to the people in the area which it will afford flood control, low flow regulation and recreation, it can hardly be classed as a spectacular accomplishment or a monument to the Corps of Engineers. This segment of the great military forces of the United States has a history which dates back to the building of the breastworks in preparation for the Battle of Bunker Hill, and has served in every war since the fight for independence. Development of the Nations' waterways, an important role in development of the West and the construction of the Panama Canal, to mention a few, are historic and remembered accomplishments of the US Army Engineers.

Very truly yours,
H. E. SPRAGUE
Colonel, Corps of Engineers
District Engineer

(Editor's note: This letter indicates just one of hundreds of similar circumstances which will be encountered should the government go ahead with its land condemnation proceedings for the Kinzua Dam.)

Dear Sir: Sometime within the last three months an article appeared in your paper concerning the Kinzua Dam. This article was written by Harry Kilburn of Red House, N. Y. We are former Warren residents and were visiting in Warren during the holidays and overheard the article being discussed.

Would you please send me a copy of the Times-Mirror of that day? Mr. Kilburn is my brother. Red House has been his home for many years. When the state put the artificial lake in Red House he had to sell his land to the state and move. Also my father and mother and two of Harry's children are buried in the cemetery at Red House. Of course, now the cemetery would also have to be moved. You can see why he is so interested in the outcome.

Thank you,
Mrs. Sam J. Gelotte

The Mature Parent

Fear of Inherited 'Badness'
Makes Parent Feel Helpless

MRS. K. writes, "If one of our children lies or does something wrong, my husband says it's my 'bad blood' in them. He is reminding me that my father died of alcoholism. God knows I don't need reminding. His drunkenness was my girlhood's nightmare. I tell my husband that I can't stand hearing that the children have inherited my father's weakness, but he goes right on."

I have a message for Mrs. K. It's from Dr. George S. Stevenson, noted psychiatrist and national consultant to the National Association for Mental Health. It's this:

"While there is a suspicion among some scientists that there is a predisposition to alcoholism, the bulk of evidence suggests that it is not inherited."

MR. K. may not stop accusing his wife of poisoning their children's blood because the accusation is unreasonable.

Sometimes a person's need to make us feel helpless is stronger than his reason. If we disprove the charge that we have transmitted a bad inheritance to our children, he'll just locate another way to make us feel helplessly victimized by forces beyond our control.

So Mrs. K.'s answer may not be to correct her accuser but to correct her response to his accusation.

To do this she may need the kind of help her local Family Service Association can make available to her.

If we have had an alcoholic parent, we can be easily infected by his sense of helplessness. Without being at all conscious of what we're doing, we can allow our long, painful experience with his uncontrollable behavior to distort our response to children's.

If Bobby tells a lie or Mary neglects chores for movie magazines, we'll bring to their irresponsibility all the discouragement aroused by their grandfather's. We'll imagine we're as powerless to help Bobby learn to trust the truth as we were to stop our father's drinking. In Mary's carelessness we'll see his fatal submission to impulses.

Psychiatrists would say we were "projecting" the helplessness we felt toward our father on to our children.

Thus, Mrs. K.'s real problem may not be her husband's unreasonable prophecy of more suffering ahead, it may be her own expectation of it.

AROUND THE WORLD

SCIENTIFIC CURIOSITY—Intent upon his work, famed metallurgist Dr. William J. Kroil conducts an experiment in the chemical engineering research laboratory at Oregon State College, in Corvallis. Dr. Kroil, 58, was recently awarded the 1958 Perkin Medal of the American section of the Society of Chemical Industry for outstanding work in chemistry.

HOT NEWS—Roses on a background of newsprint and maps of Europe highlight this print dress of satinized cotton which has a n. tching parasol. Called "Coquette," the shirt bodice is cut with a wide frame neckline and three-quarter sleeves. A draped cummerbund is set above the full, wide-hemmed skirt which was modeled in London.

HE'S HAD IT!—Elvis, a lion, makes no pretense of imitating his singing namesake as he relaxes at the New York Coliseum. Owned by Bob Dietch, of Fair Lawn, N. J., the sleepy lion was among the many furry, feathered and finny pets which were on display in the new building.

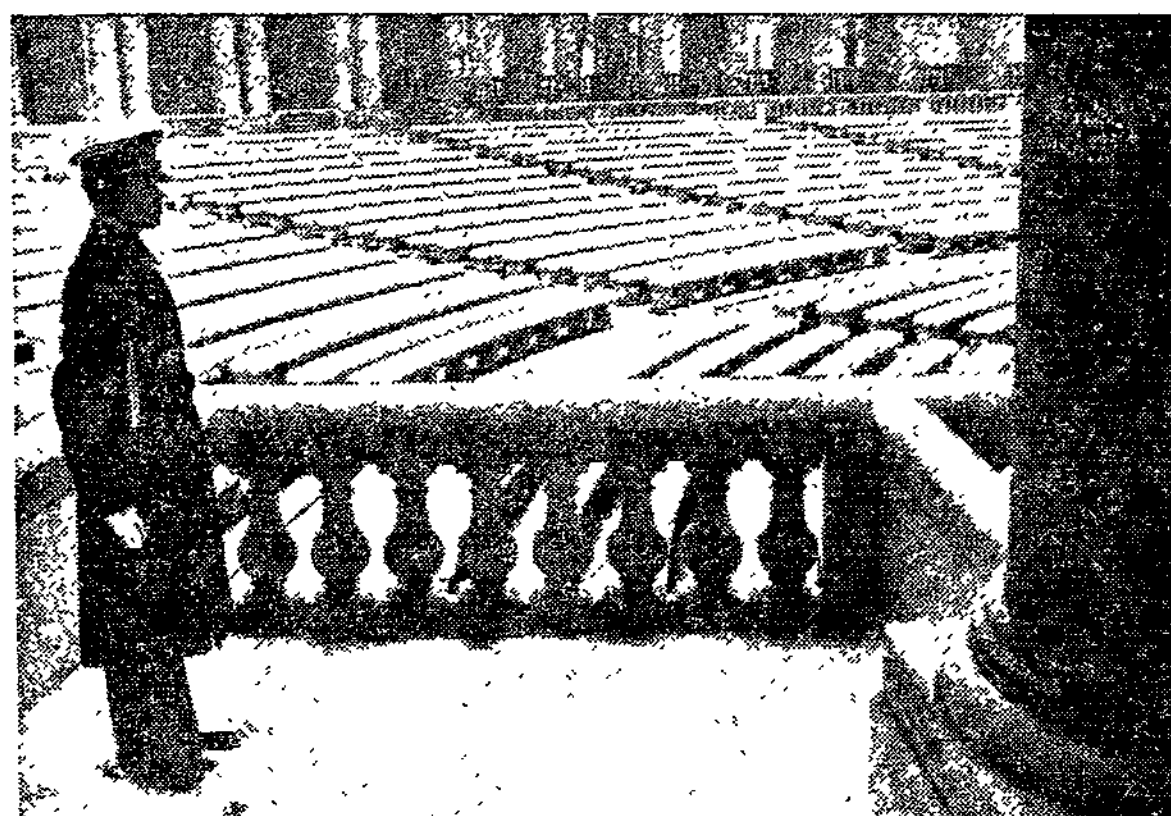

NEWCOMER — She's pretty 18-year-old France Nuyen, whose mother is French and father Chinese. France is shown dressed for her first role, the little native girl in the movie "South Pacific," which stars Rossano Brazzi and Mitzi Gaynor.

DIFFERENT — This lavish black mink stole features a separate mink bow which makes the piece one of the most versatile of the new fur fashions. It can be worn in a number of other ways.

WINDOW DRESSING—As traffic rolls around the famed Place de la Concorde in Paris, there's a sudden switch in the scenery as reflected in the window of this auto. Instead of the familiar obelisk in the center, the Eiffel Tower is shown keeping watch over the city.

SNOW MAN—As a heavy mantle of winter's white stuff falls on the National Cemetery in Arlington, Va., a sentry stands on solitary duty. He's already more than ankle-deep in snow and probably longing for nothing more than to have someone take over for him.

WELL! WELL!—The wonder-world of science has captured these youngsters as they watch bright round spots within a glass tube in Pittsburgh, Pa. They're visiting the Westinghouse Electric Corporation's new research laboratories and seeing the visible evidence of billions upon billions of electrons pouring across space.

DIRTY TRICK—The climate in southern Italy seems to be turned topsy turvy and some motorists have bogged down in the ice and snow on a road near Bari. A tractor in the background has been brought up to help the drivers cope with the unusual weather conditions as the normally warm area was gripped by a cold wave.

RUSH ACT—Putting her best foot forward, pretty Shirley Meador is set for a swim in the new Athletic Club pool in Memphis, Tenn., but she's finding herself a little ahead of time. Only the concrete foundations and basement level of the $750,000 club have been built as yet. The proposed enclosed swimming pool is still very much out in the open, and is not much more than a mud puddle at the moment.

REPTILE OUT OF WATER—That's Charlie, a four-year-old alligator, out for a stroll in the garage that is its home in London. Ronald Walford, Charlie's owner, ties the 'gator to the end of a clothesline, and they're off for some daily exercise. A special aquarium in the garage takes good care of Charlie's aquatic needs.

YULE JUMPER — Holiday rosebuds grow down this polished cotton jumper worn by a very junior miss. It has the look of an ensemble, but the dress is all one piece with an attached organdy blouse filling the basque neckline. The velvet sash and even its petticoat are attached.

Sponsor Declares Prospects Are Bright for Government Lottery

Washington (AP)—Congress' No. 1 advocate of a government run lottery said today prospects never were brighter.

"Not that I am so naive I think my lottery bill will pass right away," added Rep. Paul H. Fono. "But things are moving our way."

Fono, a well-groomed Republican from a prosperous middle-class New York City district, said the government can have a yearly income boost of at least 10 billion dollars without new taxes any time Congress authorizes a lottery. He said two things encourage him to think the time may be coming:

1. The drive to pour more funds into military and scientific efforts to counter Soviet gains. "Maybe you can balance a 74-billion-dollar budget on paper," he remarked, "but when they really start spending, it's a different story."
2. A swing in public sentiment he said is evidenced by such things as New York's referendum vote last November to legalize bingo. As he has at regular intervals since he came to Congress in 1955, Fono took the floor to advise his colleagues they can't afford to neglect such a bonanza as a "well regulated, all-government-run lottery."

Fono's bill would set up a federal commission to make the rules and administer the lottery.

"Tickets would be printed by the Bureau of Engraving—the bureau that prints the money," he said. "They wouldn't be sold by street vendors, but at post offices, just like stamps."

Herb Score Signs His Indian Contract for '58

Cleveland (AP)—Southpaw Herb Score signed his 1958 contract with the Cleveland Indians Wednesday and said he is "feeling fine and looking forward to enjoying a wonderful season."

No salary was announced, but the baseball club said the contract terms were "the same as he received last year."

A line drive off the bat of New York Yankee infielder Gil McDougald felled Score in a night game here last May 7. The retina of his right eye was swollen by the blow, and through the remainder of the season his vision was impaired.

GRAYSON'S SCOREBOARD

Russell Is Answer to Dutch Dehnert's Pivot Play

BY DUTCH DEHNERT
As Told to Jimmy Breslin

NEW YORK (NEA)—Johnny Beckman was in the middle and he had the ball. His Celtics uniform was wrinkled and a little stiff from not being washed, so he didn't look like the basketball player he was.

Beckman threw the ball to Benny Borgeman, who was on the side now but two nights before had been at a dog track in Miami and came to Chattanooga with us for this game because we needed a fifth player.

Borgeman slipped the ball to Pete Barry and then the pass came to me. I was in front of a big standing guard the Chattanooga Raifites had posted on the foul line. My back was to him. It was something you never did, standing at the foul line with your back to the basket, but Barry cut past me and I gave him the ball and the guy guarding him was out of the play as Pete dropped in an easy lay-up.

Before this, the standing guard had been ruining our cuts. Now he was helpless. We worked the rest of the game this way and what you now call the pivot play became a part of basketball.

THIS WAS IN 1926 and the people who saw the play which revolutionized basketball were in a hall in Chattanooga, where you had to stand if you weren't among the first 2,500 people in the place. That year, I got $3,000 for a six-month barnstorming season with the Original Celtics.

These days I stand behind the side lodges at Madison Square Garden whenever the Boston Celtics come to town and I look at Bill Russell. He is a modern pivot man—at 6-9 he's eight inches taller than I—and he makes moves which make me shout some times.

I enjoy Russell even more than the 15,000 people who usually pack big arenas on the National Basketball Association circuit. Because when I watch him, I'm looking at the man who puts an end to a play I started 32 years ago.

Russell forces professional clubs loaded with smart players to change their entire game because you can't put a man in the pivot against him. With his fantastic timing, jumping and split vision he can hold the best shots to only a couple of points.

TO COMBAT HIM, THE pros have to play their big men outside and hope their shots will fall and draw Russell out. The pivot play is the one reason why the big man got into basketball.

Until Russell came along, George Mikan was the best of all time. He used the position intelligently. But Russell is the best big man basketball has seen. He is the reason why the Celtics of today make you forget any basketball team that ever played. They have Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman, Tommy Heinsohn. But they could never make it without Russell.

ON OFFENSE, RUSSELL passes the ball back, gets position, rebounds casually. He is beginning to develop his scoring. He is picking his shots better and his pivot shot—in my day, a lay-up—is a sweeping hook impossible to even hinder.

I'll sit on the bus ride back to my home at Rockaway Beach. Long Island, and look out the window and think that maybe I did something which helped those fellows get where they are. Maybe, I'll tell myself, those nights the Old Celtics sold basketball in church basements and fire houses did some good for today's players.

It takes me about an hour and a half to get home. But it never seems that long.

NEXT: What's so modern about a Bob Cousy pass?

Style Shop Quintet Loses to Oilers, 111-93

Hard luck continued to plague the Style Shop basketball quintet last night when they were outpointed at Oil City, 111 to 93.

The Stylists couldn't seem to stop the combination of Ungren and "Long Dan" McFadden who netted 29 and 27 points respectively.

Style Shop led at the end of the first period, 26 to 22, but the Oilers turned on their hoopin' charm in period two to outscore the locals 32-18 for a 10-point lead that was never diminished.

Sharing Style Shop scoring success were D. Berdine, Rickerson and Lindberg, all with 20 points.

No Shouting as the NCAA Convention Comes to a Close

Philadelphia, (AP)—The 52nd annual NCAA convention, as calm as this City of Brotherly Love, was all over today. There wasn't even any shouting.

The biggest noise of the four-day session came yesterday when the college football coaches applauded the humor and football knowledge of Vice President Nixon. The former third-string end at Whittier College, Calif., addressed the College Football Coaches Assn. at its annual luncheon. The affair honored Woody Hayes of Ohio State as Coach of the Year.

On the convention floor, there was only a slight stir of activity. Practically all concerned one topic—a controversial proposal from the NCAA Council to exempt the Army, Navy and Air Force academies from some recruiting restrictions.

The convention voted temporary acceptance of the proposal, but not before several delegates objected strongly. Eastern colleges indicated they may pass a stronger restrictive rule.

The proposed rule recognizes unique problems confronting the service academies in regard to tutoring prospective athletes so that they can meet stiff entrance requirements. It will be voted on in 1959.

Unlike many past years, the report of the Television Committee was accepted and endorsed without a dissent. It labeled the 1957 program a success and called the attention of the 1958 committee to the possible danger of pay-TV. There were no specific recommendations for a change from 1957.

Mountaineers of West Virginia May Make Team of Year

By DON WEISS
The Associated Press
More and more, it looks as if those hustling Mountaineers of West Virginia University have that could make them "The Team" of the 1957-58 college basketball season.

The Mounties, who assumed the No. 1 rating in the AP poll after snapping North Carolina's 37-game winning streak three weeks ago, showed a gritty performance last night making it 11 straight 75-75 over a fired-up Villanova outfit that held a 16-point lead with about 10 minutes to play.

The Mounties, fumbling and inept until then, went on a spectacular drive behind their spectacular 6-5 soph. Jerry West, a 27-point scorer for the night. With about 10 seconds left, West's field goal pulled West Virginia to within one point at 75-74 and, with but two seconds left, Lloyd Shariar's driving layup bagged it.

West Virginia's victory came in the opener of a doubleheader at the Philadelphia Palestra. Twice-beaten Temple, Holiday Festival tournament champ and 12th-ranked nationally, won its eighth in a row 64-45 over Penn State in the second game.

Professionals Play For Fresh Money

Dunedin, Fla. (NEA) — Five new tournaments highlight the Professional Golfers' Association spring and summer schedule.

Two new $50,000 events are the Buick Open Invitation at Grand Blanc, Mich., June 19-22, and the Pepsi-Boys Club Championship at Norwich, Long Island, June 26-29.

Two other major additions are the $40,000 Vancouver, B.C. Open Aug. 29-Sept. 1, and the Denver Centennial, Sept. 11-14. The fifth new number is the $15,000 Lafayette, La., Open, Apr. 24-27.

Since the latter runs concurrently with the Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev., it represents a departure in billing. With a sponsored tournament scheduled at the same time as an approved one, those players who are not on the Tournament of Champions qualifying list may compete in the Lafayette.

As usual the World Championship at Chicago Tam o' Shanter, July 31-Aug. 3, carries the largest purse the prize money having been increased to $105,000.

Potent Scoring Machines Are Named for Senior Bowl Game

Mobile, Ala. (AP)—Potent scoring machines were announced today for Saturday's Senior Bowl game, but the football philosophy of the opposing pro coaches was evidenced more by the defensive lineups.

South Coach Paul Brown, strong adherent of tight defenses, and Joe Kuharich, whose North team lost 21-7 last year because it couldn't stop fullback Don Besse-ler's drives, placed some of their more publicized players on the defensive units.

The offensive platoons leave little to be desired however. Kuharich's offensive backfield includes Michigan State teammates Jim Ninowski, quarterback, and Walt Kowalczyk, fullback. The halfbacks are Mike Sommer, George Washington and Ray Nitschke, Illinois Bobby Cox, Minnesota, will alternate with Ninowski.

Brown, Cleveland Browns coach, will counter with quarterback George Walker, Arkansas; halfbacks Phil King, Vanderbilt, and Dick Christy, All America from North Carolina State; and fullback Jimmy Taylor, Louisiana State.

The South's defensive unit will include Billy Atkins, record scorer for Auburn's national title; Ray Brown, star of Mississippi's Sugar Bowl rout of Texas; and All America linemen Bill Krisher, Oklahoma, and Charles Krueger, Texas A&M.

Speaking of Sports . . .

Says Waite Forsyth, Jamestown Sun sports writer, about that unfortunate flareup during the Warren-Jamestown game Tuesday night.

Temper flareups are as natural and familiar accompaniments to sports competition as to any other type of competition so far as man is concerned, so the brief interlude of hostilities at the very end of the Warren-Jamestown high school basketball game here Tuesday night should not be the least surprising, some critics overheard by this corner notwithstanding.

Coaches Vince Joy of the Red Raiders and Joe Massa of the Dragons both expressed regret that the outburst happened but both admitted it was not too surprising a climax to a game that was something of a classic in the way of toughness of action from the opening whistle to the finish.

The coaches' attitude may be readily understood in view of the lengthy and spirited athletic rivalry between the athletic forces of the two schools, a rivalry that probably is either first or second in longevity ranking in this section's sports history. Teams and individuals of the schools always have maintained a high level of sportsmanship in a series of combats that stretches back to the beginning of the present century.

Owing to the prompt intervention of game officials, coaches, schoolmen and several of the more level-headed adult spectators, the outbreak was quickly abated. It should be pointed out to some adult fans, however, that they do not promote the cause of peaceful procedure by spilling down from the bleacher seats to add to the confusion, even if their sons or nephews or grandsons are involved in extra-curricular activities. They should remain in their seats. The officials, the players and those in charge of the contest generally are capable of restoring order.

I would point out that the worth of sports activities as part of grade and high school curricula is attested here, since competition of the proper nature gives boys and girls a chance to learn to vie with one another without permitting their tempers to get in their way. Self-control always has been a hurdle for the average man and boy and there seems to be little hope of a lessening of emotional tensions so long as human nature remains human nature.

Adult Education Evening Program Planned in Warren

It has just been announced that through the cooperation of the Warren Area Chamber of Commerce and the Junior Chamber of Commerce, The Pennsylvania State University will offer an evening school program for adult education at Warren High School.

Registration will get underway in the near future for enrollment in this program. The majority of the courses available in the program being offered are technical courses which have been adapted to the needs of local industries and businesses.

Instruction in these courses has been carefully developed by resident members of the Penn State faculty, and includes specific training for jobs which come within the scope of the various courses. Several other courses are aimed at filling limited and immediate needs for instruction in the area of social development.

The program is open to those who have completed high school or who have equivalent education or maturity from other forms of training or experience.

It is planned that these classes will meet each Monday and Wednesday evenings and will run from early February until the end of May.

An enrollment of 15 or more persons is necessary for each course in order to have the course made available.

West opened the deuce of diamonds. East won with the king and returned the ten spot. He hoped to force dummy to ruff but South jumped up with the queen and was able to discard from dummy.

Unfortunately for South he chose the wrong discard. He got rid of the deuce of spades.

Let's see what happened to South from then on. He led a trump and went up with dummy's queen. East took the king and now forced dummy to ruff another diamond lead. South took his ace of trumps and played three rounds of clubs, trumping his third lead.

His next play was the queen of spades which held the trick. He had to play dummy's ace on the next spade lead and East trumped. Now East led a fourth diamond and South could trump in either hand but he had to lose another trick. If he trumped in his own hand one of dummy's two clubs would be a loser and if he trumped in dummy he would have to lose one of his two spades.

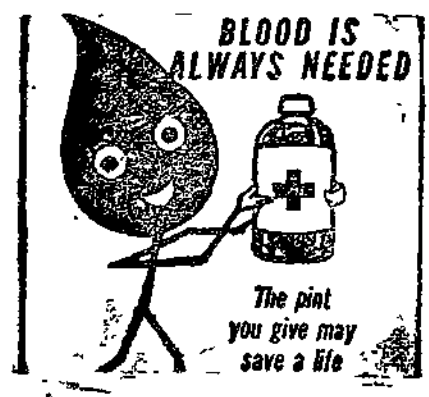

If South had foreseen the whole play he would have let a club go from dummy at trick two. Then when he got around to playing the spade suit he would not have had to play dummy's ace until the third lead. If East trumped the second spade lead he would be trumping a little one (not the ace) and if he waited for the ace declarer would make his 10 tricks anyway.

Q—The bidding has been:
North—East—South—West
1 ♥—Double 1 N.T.—Pass
2 ♥—Pass
You, South, hold:
♠ K 3 2 ♥ Q 9 8 ♦ A 8 6 ♣ J 9 8 2
What do you do?
A—Bid three hearts. You must invite a game now but are not quite strong enough to bid it yourself.

TODAY'S QUESTION
You hold the same hand. Instead of bidding two hearts your partner has passed and East has bid two diamonds. What do you do now?

Matter of FACT Australia Indian Ocean Pacific

The Great Barrier Reef lies off the northeast coast of Australia. It is like a long, irregular wall, 300 to 500 feet high. It is 1,200 miles long, equal to the distance from Maine to Florida. Only small parts of the reef show above the surface of the ocean. The reef provides a protected channel for ships sailing from Brisbane to Cape York.
